Dr Wilson,
Meadowpark Street,
Glasgow.

Dear Dr Wilson,

REV. DAVID BLACK, Bearsden.

Your patient attended recently. As you are aware, he has recently had some chest discomfort. This did not sound to me like cardiac pain, and I reassured him that this was my view. I did not have a further chest X-ray and cardiograph carried out as I understand you had this done relatively recently. He has had no haemostatic problems in recent times.

I think he has been doing far too much and I suggested he take things easier.

I have arranged to see him again in a month. If, at this stage, there is no significant improvement I will arrange for a more formal cardiological investigation.

Yours sincerely,

J. F. Davidson.
