In the light of the repeated testing, with HCV PCR Negative results, given by donors of the 4 units of blood transfused to Mr Tamburrini, I do not consider this to be the route by which he acquired his Hepatitis C infection.

I wonder if you might in confidence question Mr Tamburrini about whether he had any virology tests done elsewhere prior to, or just after December 1998 to establish his Hepatitis C status at that time. It may also be informative to enquire into the possibility of the infection having been acquired by another means eg from a close family member, although I know that raising such an issue will be extremely difficult.

Thank you for notifying us about this case.

Yours sincerely
